

Jean-Claude WORMS

European Science Foundation

Dr Jean-Claude Worms is the Chief Executive Officer of the European Science foundation. Jean-Claude Worms has 15 years of research experience in international space science projects and holds PhD in physics (astronomy and space science) from the University Pierre et Marie Curie. He has 28-year career in research, science management and science policy. He is now the Chief Executive of one of the major scientific institutions in Europe, involved in particular in change management between 2011 and 2015, and in charge of the new mission of ESF in delivering scientific services to the community. He has extensive experience in roles that require the understanding of the needs and priorities of the science community, science policy makers, research organisations and institutions, and private research foundations. He also has extensive experience in strategic planning; assessment of programmatic aspects of international agencies and research councils; coordination of policy and strategy at national and international level; interacting with executives and scientific interest groups world-wide. He has assumed the role of coordinator for several EU funded projects (FP6/7/H2020). Jean-Claude Worms was the coordinator of DEMOCRITOS project.