

Carolus PRASETYADI

University Pembangunan Nasional

Carolus Prasetyadi completed undergraduate studies in Geology Engineering at Universitas Pembangunan Nasional “Veteran” Yogyakarta/UPNVY in 1986, and instantly became a lecturer at his alma mater. In 1993, had golden opportunity to continue postgraduate studies in the Department of Geology, at the West Virginia University, USA. A year after coming back to Yogyakarta from the United States (1996), was appointed as Chairman of the Department of Geology Engineering UPNVY, up to the year 2001. Saturated for being the caretaker at the Department, in 2002 took doctoral program in the Geology Engineering at Institut Teknologi Bandung/ITB and completing a dissertation entitled ‘Tectonic Evolution of Palaeogene Eastern Java’ in 2007 and went back to the UPNVY until now as a lecturer at the Geology Engineering of UPNVY. Aside from being a lecturer, is also active as a member of IAGI (Indonesian Association of Geologists) and researcher in the field of Dynamic Geology.