

Teruyuki Nakajima

Atmosphere and Ocean Research Institute, University of Tokyo

Prof. Teruyuki Nakajima is the director of Center for Earth Surface System Dynamics of Atmosphere and Ocean Research Institute, University of Tokyo. He also serves as the section president of Atmospheric and Hydrospheric Sciences, the Japan Geoscience Union; Member of WCRP Joint Science Commission (JSC); Former President of IAMAS/International Radiation Commission; Chair of the UNEP/Atmospheric Brown Cloud (ABC)-Asia Program; Member of the Science Council of Japan. He has made pioneering works on the atmospheric radiative transfer theory, remote sensing and modeling of aerosols and clouds. He got a Japan Meteorological Society Award in 1995 and Nissan Science Award in 2000.