

James GREEN

Director of Planetary Science Division, NASA HQ

Dr. James Green is the Director of the Planetary Science Division at NASA Headquarters. He received his Ph.D. in Physics from the University of Iowa in 1979. Dr. Green has written over 110 scientific papers involving various aspects of magnetospheric physics of the Earth and Jupiter. Dr. Green has also worked at NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center and at the Goddard Space Flight Center (GSFC). While at GSFC, Dr. Green was a co-investigator and deputy Project Scientist on the Imager for Magnetopause-to-Aurora Global Exploration (IMAGE) mission. In 1988 he received the Arthur S. Flemming award given for outstanding individual performance in the federal government and was awarded Japan's Kotani Prize in 1996 in recognition of his international science data management activities.